gathered in the theater. Mr. Goldstein was the principal speaker of the afternoon, the general topic for the meeting being Our Label. He advocated strongly buying local cigars, and devoted much attention to the tobacco trust, telling of its shops in Georgia, where 1,000 girls work and chiefly machine-made cigars are turned out. By reading parts of the briefs in the government's case against the trust, he gave the audience a clear understanding of the subject.

President Stancombe spoke more briefly, but effectively pointed out what the label means for both union man and consumer.

There was a great outpouring of the man and consumer. There was a great outpouring of the people of St. Patrick's parish on Sunday, when the forty hours' devotion began, following a solemn high mass in which Rev. F. L. FitzPatrick was cellang Silver Threads Among the Gold, Whist Tournament.
